Welcome to the next level of Economics in the heart of Lisbon.

ISEG is the place to go if you want to go places. We have a long tradition of Economics studies and a large experience in research development. Our Masters in Economics builds up the perfect pathway for your career to move forward. Who knows, maybe it could help you land your dream job.

At ISEG, you'll get a two-year masters programme that complements, and builds on, the knowledge gained from a Bachelor's degree in Economics. Its main objectives are to provide every student with an advanced background in economic theory and with the skills and empirical techniques they'll need to thrive on the current economic reality.

The challenge is set.
Are you up for it?

Masters in Economics Student

“

The programme is organized in such a way that students have the opportunity to study various fields of Economics. Being mainly a theoretical degree, it is challenging and requires effort and hard work. For me it is also important the excellence and professionalism that the professors have been demonstrating day after day, with the objective of developing students with the necessary skills for the job market and/or future academic endeavors. As I am now finishing my master's, I have no doubt that it will be valuable throughout my professional career.
